Not Enough Stores Selling Bonds, Says Chairman

THIRTEEN BUSINESS PLACES, HOWEVER ARE NEARING THEIR FULL QUOTAS

All stores participating are doing a bang-up job, but there are not near enough of the stores in Ocean Beach, where the employers and the employees are working on the sale of bonds in the Fifth War Loan drive, Local Chairman Burnett S. Mills reported Thursday.

Of the 13 local stores reporting as at work, the 13 having a quota of $28,000 for 70 employees, they had sold $23,650 worth up to Thursday noon, reports the chairman. The 13 stores working here listed as Lownes (2 stores), Market Basket, Safeway, Mode O'Day, Elm's, Kraft Drug, Cache of Sweets, Marc's, Veda Moss, Blue Chip Liquor, Fried's and Newport Liquor.

The Lownes Variety store, he said, was the first to "go over the top," where every one of the employees had sold the individual quota of $400 or more. Total for the 10 employees of this store, up to noon Thursday was $4800, reports the chairman. The Lownes Department store also was over the top by noon yesterday, with a total of $3200 for its eight employees.

High Honor to Kilmer
The Market Basket also is "over the top" with its quota, and by noon Thursday had sold $9275 in bonds. Of this total, Jim Kilmer had sold $5475 and is the first in the local district to become a four-star "general." "In fact, we believe he is the first in San Diego to have attained that high rank in the Third Army," reports Chairman Mills.

Two "Generals" in Bank
While the local bank is not in the jurisdiction of the local bond sale committee, the staff of this bank already has two four star "generals," each having sold at least $5000 in bonds. They are Rollin Reed and Mrs. Eklag Greiner. Emma Bumbaugh is now a "lieutenant general."

OCEAN BEACH WOMAN INJURED SATURDAY IN CAR CRASH ON CABLE

Mrs. Aron T. Gordon, 34, of 4868 Coronado st., suffered broken ribs and possible internal injuries in a car crash on Cable st. between Santa Monica and Newport ave. Saturday night. She was riding in a car driven by her husband, 30, an aircraft worker, when the car crashed into another parked on Cable st.

Traffic officers from town who investigated report that they cited Gordon on a charge of drunken driving and driving on the wrong side of the street. Mrs. Gordon was taken to Scripps Memorial hospital in La Jolla for treatment.

Loma high school, was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, N. Y., on June 6, and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the corps of engineers of the regular army. Lt. Davis finished twentieth in a class of 474 and was designated as a distinguished cadet on graduation. He is spending 30 days' leave with his parents at 3401 A st., S. E., Washington, D. C., after which he will report to the engineer school at Fort Belvoir, Va.

ASSEMBLYMAN KRAFT AT WORK ON INTERIM AVIATION COMMITTEE

Assemblyman Fred H. Kraft of Ocean Beach has been at work on a special interim airport committee since the special session of the state legislature adjourned at Sacramento. He has been at Daly City and in and around the San Francisco bay district.

He plans to attend the state druggists convention in San Jose on Tuesday and Wednesday next week, following which he and his family expect to return to their home here.

Miss Beatrice Wood of San Francisco arrived Sunday night for a visit of a few days with her niece, Miss Lucille Iverson. Miss Wood left Wednesday to return home. On Monday evening the two enjoyed the aquacade at Lane Field.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sugg and daughter, Virginia Green, moved Monday back to their home in National City. They had been living for the past year with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Smith, 4869 Santa Monica ave.

Speaker Predicts Great Future for Pacific Coast Area

"Because of its superior assets of various kinds, San Diego I believe will never fall below 300,000 in population," declared Rufus Choate, vice-president of the Union Title & Trust Co. in the main talk to the Kiwanis club Tuesday evening. He voiced an extremely optimistic outlook for the future of the Pacific coast and by comparison with other parts of the United States, about equal area and of even less natural resources, he predicted that the coast states will some day become about the densest in population of all the sections of this country. He intimated that California may yet become the financial center of the world.

He pointed out that water has ceased to be a problem in California, that Arizona to the east as well as Texas will be textile feeders to the coast because of their possibilities for raising cotton and that wool may yet be changed into iron and steel by newly invented chemical bath methods, thereby eliminating much of the present disadvantage of lack of iron deposits in the Pacific coast states. He hinted that the expected development of China after the war will have a great bearing on the increase of industry and population in these western states.

Our climate, of course, he said, will continue to be one of our greatest assets and will continue to draw more people to California.

The navy payroll alone, present and contemplated, should assure a population in San Diego of at least 300,000, he asserted. The two greatest needs of San Diego county now are water from the Colorado river and two improved highways, one to Riverside and the other to the east.

Rollin Reed presided as program chairman and introduced the speaker, Harry Masters, manager of Safeway store on Newport was inducted as a new member of the club by his competitor, Milt Lancaster.

Guests at the meeting Tuesday included Dr. Richard Barber of the San Diego club, John D. Hennessy, and Rev. Myron C. Insko.

FREE LEGAL SERVICE TO FAMILIES OF SERVICEMEN ANNOUNCED BY LAWYERS

If more families of servicemen knew that they were entitled to the free legal service of California lawyers under the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief act, more of them would take advantage of it.

"While volunteers on the state bar list have handled more than 55,000 cases without charge in the past 12 months, as our survey shows, we constantly find wives and mothers who need this service badly but who are unaware of its availability. Anything you can do to call this service to their attention will be of great help to them," reports the committee on war work of the state bar of California.

13 Boy Scouts Leave For Camp At Cuyamaca Lake

A group of 13 of the members of Boy Scouts troop No. 28 of Ocean Beach left Tuesday for the summer camp of the Boy Scouts of this area, held each year at Cuyamaca lake, about 60 miles from this city. About 1000 Scouts from this area already have registered for the summer camping period which runs from June 20 to September 4 inclusive.

The Ocean Beach Scouts are taking advantage of the first week of the period and will be in camp for the one week, and expect to be home by Tuesday of the coming week. They are in charge of Martin Murphy, the Kiwanis delegate to the troop, which is under the sponsorship of the Ocean Beach Kiwanis club. The list of those who made the trip, as submitted Wednesday by Scoutmaster Carleton Bingham, includes:

Lad, 16, Claims He Was Forced To Take Drink

After his arrest Sunday in the Mission Beach car parking lot, a local 16-year-old boy made the statement to Officers W. J. Shewbert and D. E. Offill of the Ocean Beach police force that Noble Ed Parrish, 21, alias Noble Ed Nance, of Pacific Beach, "handed me a bottle of rum and demanded that I take a drink or receive a blow in the face."

The officers arrested Parrish on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor and report that they saw him give the lad the bottle. They report also that there have been several cases of juveniles drinking in the Mission Beach parking lot and that the source of supply has been from some one over 21.

Boy Later Released
Later the city juvenile bureau was notified and the boy released to his mother. He said he spit out the liquor after being forced to take the drink. Parrish refused to talk except to say that "it was my liquor."

Evidently there is a definite attempt being made by adults to make drinkers out of the young lads.

Lad of 18 Nabbed

One lad of 18, John J. Campo, was arrested Sunday evening at Mission Beach amusement center on a charge of being drunk, and of having no draft card in his possession. The officers report that he did have in his possession three gas ration stamps which Campo said he bought from a stranger at the amusement center.

Mrs. Robt. B. Duncan has returned from Fort Bragg, N. C., and plans to be here for the "duration" with her mother, Mrs. Frank E. Heryet of 4804 Del Mar ave.

"Pinch the Drunken Driver" is the caption of a recently filed bulletin of instructions to the officers of the Ocean Beach police station. Says the bulletin:

"A recent check of the night-time accidents shows that a drinking driver is involved in more than half of all the motor vehicle collisions. Officers of all divisions are requested to be on the alert and check any indication of violation of Section 502 of the ordinances of the city of San Diego."

The ordinance in question covers the matter of illegal operation of motor vehicles while the driver is under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Wave of Thievery Reported In Ocean Beach by Officers

Juvenile delinquents are suspected by the Ocean Beach police as being guilty to large extent of a wave of petty thefts reported to them as going on in local stores as well as on the beaches. During the past week two local women had purses stolen in one of the local stores.

Mrs. Stanley W. Johnson of the Silver Spray apartments had a purse containing $7 and other valuables stolen between 3:30 and 11:30 p.m. Tuesday in the store in which she is employed. She told officers that she had left the purse in a drawer under a counter.

On the Saturday previous, Helen M. Holt, 4680 Santa Monica, at about 11:30 a.m., in the same local store, lost $36 in bills, she reported to the police. She said she had laid the purse down on a sack of flour only a few minutes before while she was counting rations points and that she was only a few feet away when the purse was taken by some sneak thief. The thief had taken the wallet containing the money out of her purse and had returned the purse to its place on the flour sack.

As a result of this wave of petty thefts, Acting Sergeant L. G. Chauvaud of the Ocean Beach police station Thursday issued a warning to the women and girls to take good care where they leave their purses containing valuable while in the stores and on the local beaches special care should be taken, he said.

LOCAL STORES PREPARE EXTRA WINDOW DISPLAYS FOR WAR LOAN CAMPAIGN

Several Ocean Beach stores and other places of business have prepared and installed attractive displays to promote the sale of bonds during the Fifth War loan drive. Among displays already installed are those of Marc's Sportswear and the Lownes Department store and the Bank of America, reports Mr. Elliott, chairman of the local war bond display committee of the Ocean Beach organization furthering the sale of the bonds.

The bank display features a flame thrower and decontaminating apparatus. Marc's store window features two over-size bonds and the Lownes window features items of miniature war weapons and equipment.

Chairman Elliott also has distributed official war bond campaign posters and has additional posters on hand available for distribution to other places of business wishing same. They can be obtained by calling on Mr. Elliott at the Bank of America building during the regular banking hours, he announces.

Moses Lake, Washington, a unit of the Fourth air force. Lt. Pollack was commissioned January 15, 1943, and received his present rank September 5, 1943. Previous to his entry into the Army, Lt. Pollack was manager of an automobile agency.

James Stevens, a gunnery sergeant, has arrived home from 22 months of duty in the South Pacific, and is on a furlough visit with his wife, at 4603 Lotus st. His mother and aunt, Mrs. M. Nazouze and Mrs. T. Diamond, both of San Francisco, also are here to visit him.

Mark Andrews, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. William Andrews, 4915 Cape May ave., has been overseas for 16 months and is now on duty with the Seabees in North Africa, according to word received here by the Andrews family. Mark, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Andrews of Sacramento, Calif., is a former Ocean Beach boy, having attended the elementary school here. He has sent his parents a number of souvenirs of captured enemy weapons which are now being used in connection with the Fifth War loan drive in Sacramento.

Two Adults Saved From Surf Sunday At Nearby Beaches

Near the end of the day Sunday, when the nearby beaches again were crowded, two adults were pulled from the surf, Capt. Charles Hardy, head of the police guards, reports. Chris Criley, 31, was saved from drowning at the foot of Santa Cruz ave., Ocean Beach, by two civilians, R. L. Moncrief and Don Tank.

The other was a young woman of 18, by the name of Pearl Singleton of 1648 State st., who was rescued by Lifeguard Francis Blankenship from the surf at Boomer beach, La Jolla about 5:30 p.m. Efforts at the beach to revive her proved unavailing and she was taken to the Scripps Memorial hospital, where she is reported recovering.

Capt. Hardy calls attention to the imperative need for more lifeguards at the nearby beaches. Because of the manpower shortage, he says there will be no lifeguards at La Jolla Shores, Casa pool, La Jolla, at Pacific Beach and at Bonita bay until further notice.

At this time there should be at least 25 senior lifeguards on duty, Hardy said, but he has only nine. By July 1, senior lifeguards should be increased to 33, he said, but there are no prospects of recruiting more.

Warns That Bond Buying Must Be Increased Here

Warning that War bond buying must be increased if the Southland is to meet its quota, Robert H. Moulton, Treasury War Finance Committee chairman, declared that every citizen must regard the Fifth War loan drive's success as a "personal responsibility."

During the first week of the drive, only 14 percent of the Southland's quota was sold, leaving $157,000,000 to be made up, an average of $8,000.00 a day, Moulton pointed out.

Spurred on by this warning, the citizens' Bond selling army of over 300,000 volunteers redoubled their efforts to achieve the huge quota. Butchers, bakers and candlestick makers are joining with scores of other volunteer citizens in selling War Bonds over counters, in theaters, in banks and by house-to-house canvassing, establishing a "toe hold" on the "home invasion" front.

FIREMEN PUT OUT TWO FIRES IN RESIDENCES, ONE SUNDAY AND ONE TUESDAY

One was in the residence of Ray Chenoweth, 4461 Tivoli st. The firemen were at work there for two hours Tuesday afternoon and report considerable damage.

On Sunday afternoon the firemen worked for an hour to put out a fire in a bedroom in the new government defense house at 4609 Adair ave.

Mrs. S. G. Fold is leaving this week for her vacation which she will spend in Los Angeles. She will visit her aunt, Mrs. Alex Vegh at Manhattan Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Fold have recently purchased the residence property at 2844 Etiwanda.

About 25 Girl Scouts to Leave Sunday for Camp

Girl Scouts to the number of at least 25 are planning to leave Sunday, June 25 for Camp Tapawingo at Cuyamaca Lake for the annual summer camping. Those going Sunday will be in camp for two weeks and will be under competent adult supervision. Both the Girl Scouts proper and the Brownies, the latter being the younger girls of 7 to 10, will be included in the group leaving Sunday.

A new and separate camp has been added this summer for the Brownies, giving the two camps a total capacity of about 1,000 girls. Both camps were filled a few days after registration opened and there is now a long waiting list, report those in charge.

Before leaving for camp the girls are required to take a physical examination. Local physicians are donating their services for these examinations, report the women leaders.

Other Ocean Beach troops will be leaving later in the summer, one being scheduled for July 9 and the other July 23.

All told the local troops, including the Brownies, now total around 75 girls in Ocean Beach.

VIRGIL SWOBODA OF EAST SAN DIEGO PURCHASES MORRIS MARKET BUSINESS

Virgil J. Swoboda is the new proprietor of the Morris Market on Newport ave., having taken over the business on June 12, on lease from Wm. O. Morris, owner of the building, the former proprietor, Mr. Morris, who is in the U. S. Navy, expects an early assignment to overseas duty. New name for the store will be "Virgil's Market."

Mr. Swoboda has had about 14 years experience in the grocery business. He began with the Safeway stores, for whom he worked four years. For 4 1/2 years he was employed by a wholesale grocery firm and during the past five years he has been operating a grocery store in East San Diego. Mr. and Mrs. Swoboda have two children, a son, Wade, and a daughter, Virgie Jean. They own a residence in East San Diego but plan to come out to Ocean Beach for the summer.

Police Ask That Broken Glass Be Kept Off Beach

The Ocean Beach police report that last summer a good many persons, particularly children, were given treatment for very severe cuts on the feet. This was caused by these persons stepping on broken pieces of glass lying in the sand on the beach and in the water.

They request that all persons help eliminate this as much as possible. They ask the Ocean Beach News to publish the following appeal:

"This can be done by everyone being careful with their trash and bottles while on the beach. If you see a piece of glass pick it up and prevent someone from suffering. Keep that child or person from suffering the pain and expense of treating the cut that piece of glass might have caused.

"In most cases it is the children who suffer. An example case was a boy who cut a wide gash across his foot severing the tendons in that foot. This boy had considerable trouble over a long period of time. This was the price this boy had to pay for the thoughtlessness of some other person."

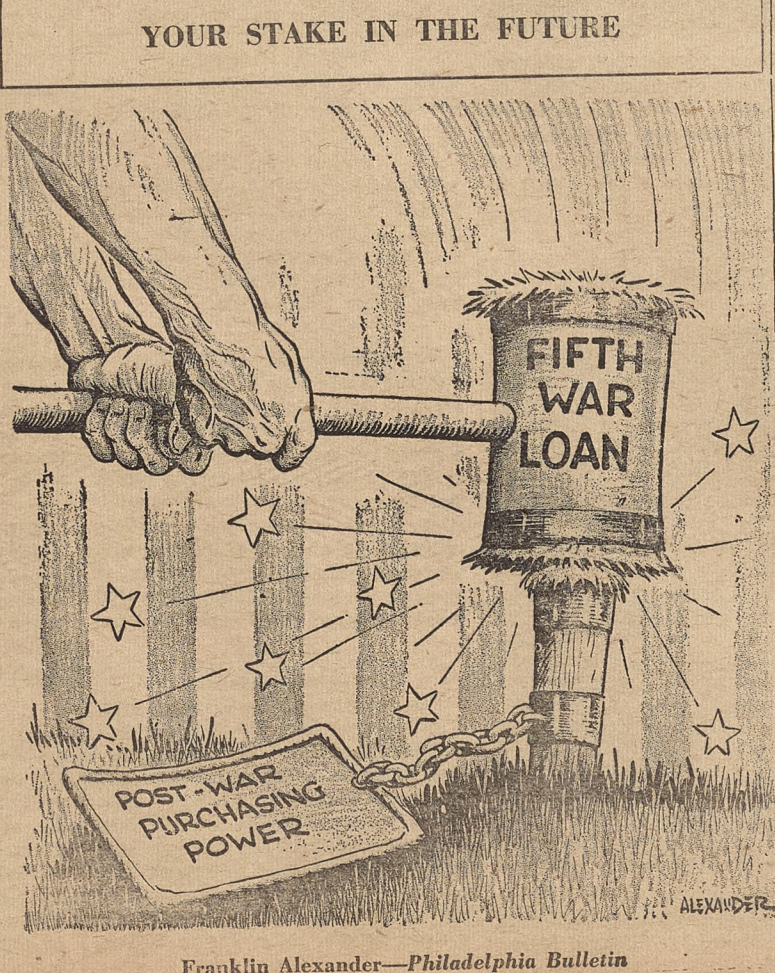

"Already this summer such cases have been treated by the police and doubtless more will follow."

"Remember, it's your own beach and it may be you or your own who may suffer next. Prevent this and pick up that piece of glass or can."

Mrs. Roberta Conger of the Ocean Beach elementary school will be one of the demonstration teachers attending the annual demonstration summer school for children scheduled to open in State college on Monday, June 26.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

First Phase of Invasion Ended
As Initial Foothold is Secured;
French Hail "Liberation Troops"

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

This first picture made from French soil shows American doughboys, rifles ready, wading through the surf onto the French beachhead. The photographer who made the picture was in the first group to hit the beach. Note the invasion craft in the background. Soundphoto.

THE INVASION:
First Phase Ended

The first phase of the Allied invasion of Europe was completed.

To a tense world, supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary forces announced this phase as the "securing of a foothold and the defeating of local German reserves."

Against fierce, last-ditch resistance of 10 hastily massed Nazi divisions, totaling nearly 150,000 men, allied forces were plunging inland on a 100-mile front of curving shoreline from the Seine Estuary near Le Havre to the Cherbourg area.

Allied forces are now in the second phase, which is one of defeating the German "tactical reserves," said headquarters. The third phase, which must be won before the Allied position is completely secure, is that of defeating the German "strategic reserves."

(Tactical reserves are those in or near the combat area; strategic reserves are those held in readiness at a distance.)

The Air Umbrella

Headquarters announced that 27,000 individual air missions were carried out in the two and one-half days following the dawn of D-day. Great air fleets, probably greater than those of D-day, hammered Nazi strong points, transport and troop concentrations within a 150-mile radius of the beachheads. Nazi fighter opposition was weak. The German high command had not yet thrown its long-hoarded fighter reserves into the battle for Normandy.

The battle was joined around Bayeux, first city of France to be freed from Germans, and Caen. A fierce tank battle raged in several wooded areas near Bayeux, where the Nazis were strengthened by parachute troops.

The navy supported foot troops with a gigantic bombardment of Caen. Nazi forces were attempting to hold the city as a pivot for counterattacks. But on the second day of invasion, the Germans were forced to admit street fighting already was being waged inside Caen.

Single Front

It became increasingly obvious that Allied positions were fast being welded together into a single front, stretching from Caen through Bayeux to just outside Carentan and some distance up the Cherbourg peninsula toward Valognes.

It was disclosed that the first forces ashore on D-day might have pushed ahead more rapidly than they did, but General Eisenhower's supreme command decided it was wiser to slow the advance somewhat while awaiting more adequate strength rather than make a risk having the spearheads choked off.

OBJECTIVE PARIS:
By Bastille Day?

Bastille day, French national holiday, falls on July 14 and in the first days of the invasion of western Europe, veterans of the 1940 flight of France forecast that the Allies would be in Paris by that date to help the natives celebrate.

In New York the French language weekly, "France-Amerique" carried a column by Ernest R. Bauer, which indicated that French military veterans familiar with the terrain over which the battles are now being fought predict rapid progress from the beachheads to Paris—120 miles away.

Meanwhile in London Winston Churchill urged the house of commons to guard against "the idea that things are going to be settled in a rush."

LIBERATED BAYEUX:
First of Many

Eyewitness accounts described great joy in the streets of Bayeux, France, first city to be liberated by Allied troops in the invasion of western Europe. On the main rail line linking the big port Cherbourg to Paris, Bayeux is five miles inland from Seine Bay.

"God save the King. We've waited for this day. On to Paris! Vive Tommy! Vive America!" These were some of the rejoicing cries that greeted the first detachments to march through the narrow streets of the Normandy town. Cheering men and women danced through the same streets as the troops came in. Cafe owners began throwing open their doors with pianists striking up patriotic tunes to add to the festivity of that first day.

Europe was to see many towns cleared of the enemy in the weeks to come but Bayeux got its niche in the history books when the French Tricolor was hoisted above it again on the second day of the Allied landings in France.

SHUTTLE-BOMBING:
Russian Bases Used

New dispatches began carrying a new dateline that read "From a U. S. Air Base Somewhere in Russia" and this spelled historic military significance in cooperation between the United States and the Soviet Union. For the first time, U. S. planes had taken off from bases in Italy, bombed German targets, and continued flying eastward to land at secret U. S. air bases set up on Russian soil.

This new program opened the farthest corners of German territory to bombing attack by Allied planes based in Britain, Italy, North Africa and Russia. American military leaders had long wanted these Russian bases but it took diplomatic skill of the first caliber to get the Russians to agree to the strategy. They were finally convinced when it became obvious that the U. S. and England had the necessary planes and the Russians did not.

First target was a Rumanian freight yard in which the Nazis had concentrated supplies for troops fighting the Russians. American Flying Fortresses were accompanied by Russian fighter planes on part of the mission.

ITALY:

'Major Break' in Lines

The German high command in Italy was forced to admit a "major break" through their lines north and west of Rome as the Fifth army smashed toward Lake Bracciano and Civitavecchia, key port of the Tyrrhenian sea.

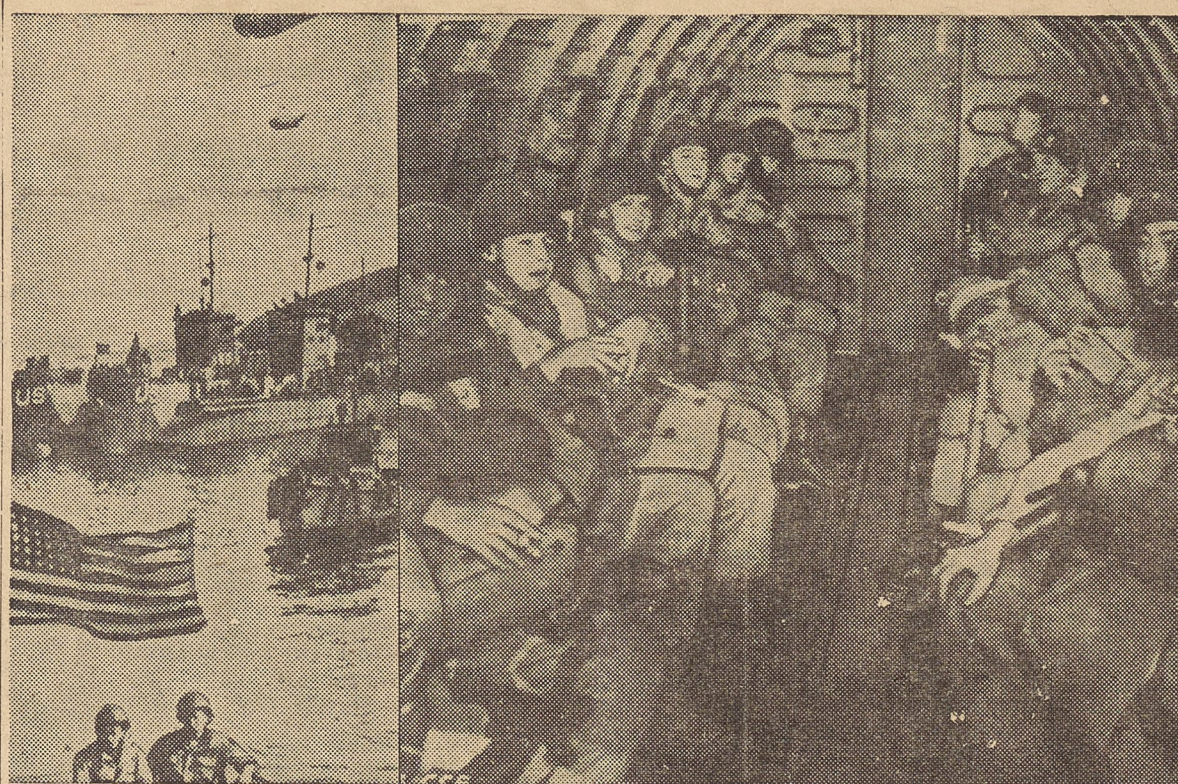

German resistance was described by the allied command as "only light." It amounted to little more than disorganized activities by delaying infantry units and self-propelled guns.

The Fifth army had taken more than 18,000 prisoners and many more thousands were captured by the British Eighth army, which was meeting heavier resistance northwest of Rome, where the hardest fighting is being encountered.

The Vatican

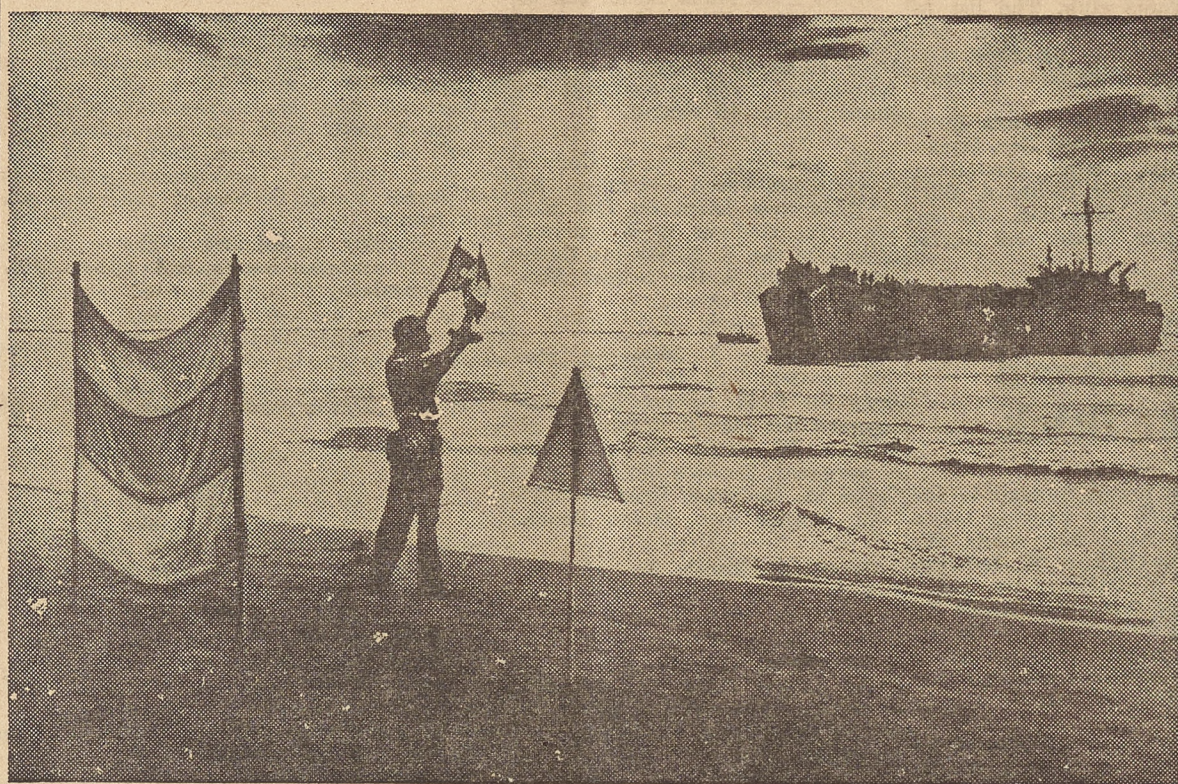

"Whoever may be the military authorities actually having control of the city of Rome," the Vatican has announced its determination to maintain a policy of neutrality. Observers took this to mean that the holy see gave the Germans credit for correct behavior with regard to Rome in its final hours.

Yanks on Way to Invasion by Air and Sea

By air and sea the army and navy of the Allied countries join in invasion of French coast. The U. S. paratroopers reflect confidence as they fly over the English channel en route to the invasion of Europe. They were among the first assault troops to land on the continent. More than 4,000 vessels were employed in the initial landings. The landing craft, one of newest types, is shown loaded with American troops about to sail for somewhere in France during the first days of invasion.

Coastguardman 'Flagging' the Sarmi Invaders

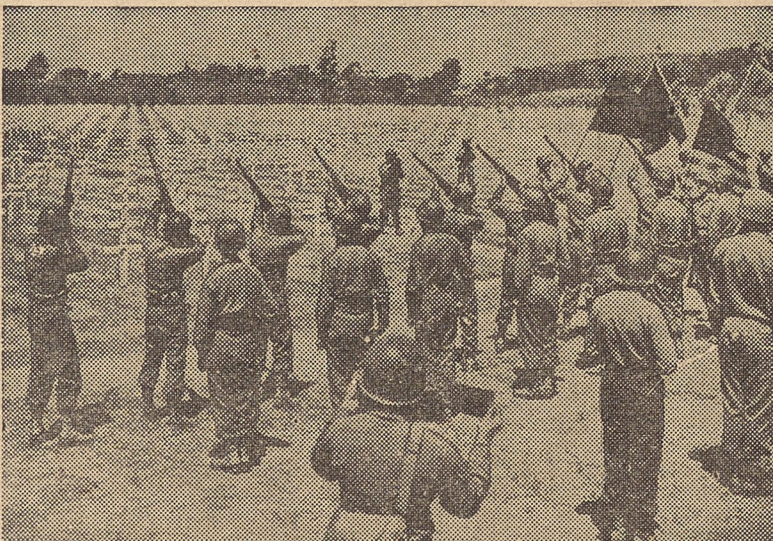

Coastguardman B. W. Long, coxswain of Detroit, Mich., directs incoming LSTs to their beaching positions with semaphore signals from the shore at Sarmi, on the north shore of Dutch New Guinea. Capture of Wakde Island and Sarmi beachhead after stiff Japanese army opposition brought two more vital landing strips into American hands on their steady thrust westward toward China and the Philippines and that much nearer to Tokyo and the final victory over the Japs. Heavy naval bombardment blasted Sarmi.

First Nazi Prisoners Taken in France

These are among the first Nazi prisoners captured by the Canadian invasion troops on the soil of France, in the great Allied invasion. Returning ships to England from the first invasion wave carried a large number of Nazi prisoners, which were increased by later returning ships of American and British naval forces.

Honor American Dead at Anzio, Italy

A firing squad sends a volley over the graves of soldiers in an American cemetery at Anzio, Italy, at a Memorial day ceremony. The salute followed an address by Fifth army commander Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark given a few days before the invasion of France. Temporary markers have been placed until after the war.

Nazi 'Butterfly'

A German "butterfly" anti-personnel bomb is examined by Maj. L. Ehrmann, New York, commandant of the Bomb Disposal school at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md. These bombs are dropped from planes in clusters.

Invasion Baby

"Invasion" is the name chosen for boy born at the invasion hour to Mrs. Anna Bodmar, Chicago. Nurse Eleanor Rytikonen salutes the new arrival at Augustana hospital.

The Red Cross turned out 910,000,000 surgical dressings in 1943.

Buried With Honor
Wherever possible, marines are buried with full military honors. Even in the heat of battle, commanding officers stop for brief services and place a small flag over a body before it is interred.

Convoys Lose Time
Convoys lose time by forcing ready ships to wait for laggards, by running at the slowest ship's pace, by zigzagging and losing position, by cluttering harbors, burdening facilities through arrival all at the same time, and through waiting turn while other ships discharge their cargo. The turn-around time to England is 70 days, against the 25 days in which a fast freighter could make it alone.

Dangerous Bazooka
The bazooka gun is a metal tube a little more than 50 inches long, and less than three inches in diameter, open at both ends. It is operated by a two-man team, a firer and a loader. The rocket itself is heavier than the hand grenade and nearly two feet long. It looks like a small elongated aircraft bomb. It has an explosive head, a propelling charge powder tube and a fanned tail.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

TYPHUS: American medical corps have conquered the dreaded scourge of all armies—typhus. The disease has been brought under control by a new vaccine, and by a poison called DDT that kills the lice that transmit the germs. Brig. Gen. Leon Fox told news correspondents: "Typhus has been removed from the death list of the U. S. soldier."

MORE FRUIT: The peach crop shows an increase of nearly 150 per cent over last year, according to reports from growers. William Graffitt, vice president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association, told dealers. The apple crop is expected to be at least 50 per cent larger than last year, and citrus prospects are much better. Graffitt said.

Driver Education Vital Need

The move launched by the California Highway Patrol to have high schools of this area inaugurate driver education classes beginning next fall merits the serious attention of the local school authorities.

For years the citizenry of California has viewed with mounting horror the deplorable toll of dead and injured in traffic accidents which, nationwide, far exceeds American losses on the battlefield for any comparable period.

Causes for highway accidents are numerous. However, traffic experts are in accord that faulty driving habits account for more than 90 per cent of all motor deaths and injuries. The obvious place to start correcting driving habits is among the youth of pre-legal driving age—in short, the faulty habit should be corrected before it is even formed.

Boys and girls, who will be the adult drivers of tomorrow, need to be taught the fundamentals of safe driving. Most important of these for the adolescent are the correct attitudes and knowledge of the social responsibilities involved in driving. This instruction may be given in the classroom, at nominal expense, either as a separate course or as an integrated part of existing courses and without the aid of expensive equipment, reports the Highway Patrol.

Here's another case of an "ounce of prevention" being worth even more than a "pound of cure." No more effective prevention of unnecessary traffic deaths in California has been suggested in a long time.

The Jeep---A Mystery

Few people in America today have not heard of or seen that versatile vehicle called the jeep. Ask any school boy what it is and you get a detailed description. Ask the average man if he would like to own one and you will get a spontaneous, "Sure!"

Yet, strangely enough, the jeep is a mystery—in fact, several mysteries. First, nobody seems to know who originated it. No less than four manufacturers claim its parentage. Second, the OPA wants to know how it should be classed: as a car, a truck, or a tractor. It can and does perform the services of all three. Third, where did its name come from?

While government agencies search for these answers, it is becoming evident that this potent puddle-jumper is destined for a wide and varied career in post-war days. Farmers, rural postmen, fire departments and John Q. Citizen himself all seem sure they can find many uses for it.

The virtually unlimited usefulness of the jeep hints at the vast field of expansion for all rubber-borne transportation after the war. The magnificent war performance of commercial motor carriers in handling one-fifth of the nation's freight with a capacity only one-twentieth that of the rails has created increased demands for this speedy and flexible type of transportation. Trucks are the main reason why this nation has averted a transportation breakdown such as occurred in the last war.

In the final analysis, the public itself isn't so concerned about the origin or classification of the jeep or how it got its name. What most people want to know is: How soon can I get one, and how much will it cost?

Convention Time

With the pyrotechnics of war bursting dramatically on both sides of the globe, the political fireworks here at home has been temporarily eclipsed. But not for long. Next week the GOP convention—the first of the two pre-campaign extravaganzas—gets under way in Chicago.

From the present outlook both conventions should be short. Unless unforeseen opposition develops, both Governor Dewey and President Roosevelt will win the respective nominations hands down. The only contender the former racket-buster will have is Ohio's Governor Bricker. And as far as F.D.R. is concerned, he has enough delegate votes to wrap up his fourth nomination right now, in spite of the Southern revolt.

With both presidential nominations virtually certain, the principal interest will center around vice-presidential candidates. California has a particular interest in this field because of the possible selection of Governor Earl Warren in spite of his efforts to avoid it. On the Democratic side, Henry Wallace is said to have the inside track for re-nomination due to his heavy labor support. However, House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Missouri's Senator Truman also have been prominently mentioned.

No other country on the globe would attempt to give such attention to politics during a war. But that's what makes America what it is.

Door Of Hope
Elects Directors

Seven directors of the Salvation Army-operated Door of Hope Home were elected at the recent annual meeting held at the institution's headquarters, 2301 Boinas st., in Ocean Beach.

Re-elected for three-year terms were George Scott, board president; Allan Klauber, board treasurer, and Sam Hamill. Added to the board's personnel were Capt. W. G. Willcutt, Naval hospital; Donald Hanson, Leonard Martin and Mrs. Chester Dorman.

The board will organize and elect its officers at the next meeting on July 19.

In her biennial report, Major Clara Flack, the Home's superintendent, said that many projects have been completed in the two-year period, including construction and equipping of a one-story hospital unit and various improvements to the main building.

Cited for their contributions to the institution were the Ocean Beach and National City Kiwanis clubs, Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Col. R. E. Clarke, divisional commander, Salvation Army, and others.

A comprehensive landscaping plan for addition of recreational facilities, and improvements was adopted, and civic and fraternal organizations will be asked to help in its completion, she reported. The board voted to ask for three bids for the remodeling of the kitchen, and parts of the main building, and erection of a laundry unit.

Ann Gaber, Allied Nations girl, aids in the drive to recover stray milk bottles in this area. Dairy men warn there will be insufficient milk this summer unless at least 3,000, 000 of the containers are returned to their source of purchase.

Allied Supremacy in Air Result of African Lesson

Borrowed Page From Germany's Book Taught Us to Coordinate Efforts of Air, Land and Sea Forces.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Early in the war with Japan, when the little men of Nippon were swarming down the Maylayan Peninsula at an unbelievable rate through impossible terrain and rolling up one inconceivable victory after another, I had a talk with a wise old military campaigner, and as a result of the conversation, sat down and wrote that "infiltration" is a word you are going to hear used a lot before this war is over.

Then followed the days when the Japs pushed the allies back from Singapore to New Guinea and the men of Nippon were acclaimed as the aces of jungle fighting, the art of filtering through territory in which heretofore human beings were not supposed to be able to fight. Today, the allies have produced the best jungle fighters in the world. We are daily beating the Japs at their own game.

And today, I was reminded of something else after another session with another anonymous oldtimer, of another time and place.

He told me some things about the allied air force and I recalled the days when Hitler began to bully Europe and I realized that it wasn't so much appeasement, corruption, deceit or Nazi diplomacy then that made the Fuehrer master of central Europe, first at Munich and later in France and the low countries, but the threatening shadow which the dreaded Luftwaffe cast across the world.

Today, just as the allies have out-jungled the Japs, they have out-Luftwaffed the Luftwaffe. In the latter case, we must admit the Germans taught us in Africa how they did it.

Triphibious Warfare

We will be able to understand the invasion of Europe much better if we understand a little more about the two roles which the allied air force has played in modern warfare ever since we took a page from Germany's book and learned what it means to coordinate the efforts of pilot and bombardier with the foot soldier and the sailor, especially in what is now generally called "triphibious" warfare.

First, it might be well to state clearly the difference between the tactical and strategic bombing. Strategic bombing is directed toward the destruction of enemy strength at a distance. Tactical bombing is destruction or interruption of enemy operations in or near the combat area.

Because the valuable quality of air power is flexibility, the two roles sometimes overlap, but in general, the strategic effort is a long range effort in terms of both time and space—it requires the use of long-range bombers and long-range fighters.

Tactical bombing is the quick answer to instant needs—it involves lighter bombers and usually does not require long range for its craft. There is an exception, which I'll mention later.

Strategic bombing is aimed, as we have seen, at factories, at all installations which contribute to the enemy's war effort; railway lines, junctures, military bases, rolling stock and all means of transportation and communication.

The targets in tactical bombing are more varied and will be mentioned later.

The Final Phase

We are interested at present in the final phase of the European war, so it might be well to describe the preliminary efforts before, and the continued effort after, the assault on an enemy shore.

The Sicilian campaign is a good example. The first job the air force had was to remove an obstacle enroute. That obstacle was the island of Pantelleria and you remember what happened to it. It was flattened into surrender in two days.

Then the real "triphibious" effort began. It followed a pattern which is pretty much the one accepted for invasions since.

The first step is the neutralization of the enemy air force and this is a job nobody but an air force can do. This means the destruction of air-dromes and other distant vital areas; later, providing fighter coverage for the beaches and for shipping.

The Germans had a thousand planes based on or near Sicily. Thirty-one of the airdromes had been attacked in the preliminary phase for a month. Rail communications were bombed in order to isolate Sicily as nearly as possible, (the second in the list of the bombers functions). Messina was a chief target for it was a convenient rail bottleneck. Also the principal rail lines running down the boot of Italy were hit.

Telephone exchanges and stations where radar sets were located were hit. This is another thing the Germans taught us in their invasion of Poland and it explains what seemed to be some of the senseless bombings of the little Polish villages. Radar and telephone exchanges were often set up in these villages. They were located by radio detection.

In Sicily itself, the enemy bases had been so thoroughly destroyed that the Germans couldn't get enough of their planes in the air to interfere with the landings. Also, the second and third functions of the tactical air force were well carried out: namely, the isolation of the enemy forces from their supplies and also interruption of movement of reinforcements.

The fourth function of the tactical bombers, which is to break down the signal communications, I referred to before—destruction of telephone and radio installations.

Ground Troop Support

The fifth is the close support of the ground troops. This was achieved in Sicily with more success than was fully realized at the time. Some commanders of the landing troops complained that there were no fighter planes over them. Later some of these same commanders, when they advanced and saw the wrecked armored cars, tanks and other equipment strewn along the roads, realized that the enemy had been held back by the attacks from the air.

In Sicily, meanwhile, troops were dropped behind the lines, and this contributed its share to the success of the invasion. We know how well airborne troops have operated in the Pacific theater and in Burma. This job is listed as sixth in air forces tactical operations and includes carrying of paratroopers, running a shuttle of transports and towing gliders which land personnel and equipment (the glider pilot fights with the land forces since he can't glide uphill).

We now come to the last two functions of an air force—less dramatic but highly important—reconnaissance and the building of air bases. In the Sicilian campaign, a million photographs a month were made so that the commander of each landing unit had pictures of every place he had to go to with his objectives plainly marked.

We know of the record time in which bases have been destroyed, captured and reactivated in the Pacific theater of war. In New Guinea, a base was taken, built, manned and put into complete operation a hundred miles from the nearest allied base, and well behind the enemy lines.

Thus we see the scope of air force operations, how closely they are knit into the operations of the land and sea forces; and how the allies have achieved air supremacy in Europe. But, because air forces are so elastic, they can be massed suddenly and, therefore, actual command of the air is much harder to maintain. At a given moment, the Germans who certainly do not have air supremacy any longer might be able, by heavy concentration and great sacrifice, to achieve temporary command of the air in a given locality. The allies did have command of the air in Italy. Otherwise, the beachhead at Anzio could never have been maintained. As it was, supplies and reinforcements could be landed in broad daylight. On the German side, no concentration of men or supplies could be attempted except at night.

The shadow of the Luftwaffe has grown thin, the weapon Hitler created to enslave the world has turned in his hand.

Doolittle Meets Doolittle; Son Drops In on Father

Tokyo Bombing Hero Has Still Another Namesake to Greet in Same 8th Air Force

By Ernie Pyle

(Editor's Note: Due to transmission delays, brought on by the volume of invasion dispatches, Ernie Pyle's first reports on that historic event have not yet reached this country. The following dispatch was written before the invasion started.)

LONDON.—(by wireless)—Here I've been gallivanting around with lieutenant generals again. If it keeps up I'm going to lose my amateur standing. This time it is Jimmy Doolittle, who is still the same magnificent guy with three stars on his shoulder that he used to be with a captain's bars.

General Doolittle runs the American Eighth air force. It is a grim and stupendous job, but he manages to keep the famous Doolittle sense of humor about it.

Doolittle, as you know, is rather short and getting almost bald. Since arriving in England from Italy he has diabolically started a couple of false rumors circulating about himself.

One is that his nickname used to be "Curly," and he occasionally throws his head back as though tossing hair out of his eyes. His other claim is that he used to be six feet tall but has worried himself down to his present small height in the past five months.

Jimmy Doolittle has more gifts than any one man has a right to be blessed with. He has been one of America's greatest pilots for more than 25 years. He is bold and completely fearless. Along with that he has a great technical mind and a highly perfected education in engineering.

In addition to his professional skill he is one of the most engaging humans you ever ran across. His voice is clear and keen, he talks with animation, and his tone carries a sense of quick and right decision.

He is one of the greatest of storytellers. He is the only man I've ever known who can tell stories all evening long and never tell one you've heard before. He can tell them in any dialect, from Swedish to Chinese.

Above all he loves to tell stories on himself. Here is an example:

He was at a Flying Fortress base one afternoon when the planes were coming back in. Many of them had been pretty badly shot up and had wounded men aboard.

The general walked up to one plane from which the crew had just got out. The upper part of the tail gun turret was shot away. General Doolittle said to the tail-gunner:

"Were you in there when it happened?"

The gunner, a little peevishly, replied:

"Yes sir."

As the general walked away the annoyed gunner turned to a fellow crewman and said in a loud voice:

"Where in the hell did he think I was, out buying a ham sandwich?"

A frightened junior officer, fearing the general might have overheard, said:

"My God, man, don't you know who that was?"

"Sure I know," the tail-gunner snapped, "and I don't give a damn. That was a stupid question."

With which Jimmy Doolittle, the least stupid of people, fully agrees when he tells the story.

Jimmy tells these stories wonderfully, with more zest and humor than I can put into them second-handed. As he says, the heart-breaks and tragedies of war sometimes push all your gaiety down into the depths. But if a man can keep a sense of the ridiculous about himself he is all right. Jimmy Doolittle can.

Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle, head of the Eighth air force over here, noticed one day in the roster of officers at his staff headquarters the name of a Captain Doolittle.

The name is not a very ordinary one, and he made a mental note that some day he would look the fellow up for a little chat. One day not long after that his phone rang and the voice at the other end said, "This is Captain Doolittle."

"Oh yes," said the general. "I had noticed your name and I meant to call you up sometime."

"I'd like to come in and see you," said the voice at the other end.

"Why yes, do that," the general said. "I'm pretty busy these days, but I'll switch you to my aide and he'll make an appointment for you."

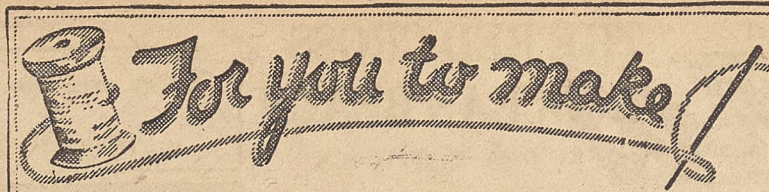

Ernie Meets Another Old Friend

In roaming around the country the other day I ran into Lieut. Col. William Profit Sr., whom I used to see occasionally in Africa and Sicily.

His old outfit was the first hospital unit ashore in the African invasion, landing at dawn on D-Day. They are so proud of that record that they'll tear your eyes out at the slightest intimation that you're confusing them with the second unit to land.

This is the hospital my friend Lieut. Mary Ann Sullivan of Boston served with. She finally wound up as chief nurse of the unit. But when I dropped in to say hello I discovered that Lieutenant Sullivan had gone back to America a couple of months ago.

She well deserved to go, too. She had been overseas nearly three years.

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them in cold water, and if cooked several hours, a very good soup may be obtained with the addition of diced vegetables.

One and a half cups of dark brown sugar are equivalent to a cupful of granulated sugar.

If iodine-stained linen is soaked in a solution of ammonia and water, a teaspoon of ammonia to a pint of water, the stain quickly will disappear.

Lemon juice may be mixed with cream cheese that is used as a stuffing for green peppers.

Apple butter spread on freshly made ginger cookies or gingerbread combines two favorites. Try it for a hurry-up luncheon or supper dessert.

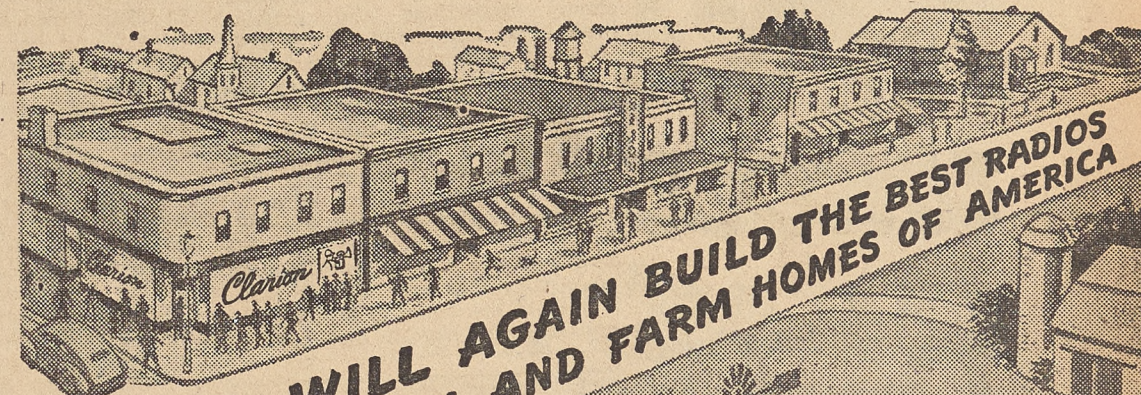

Hindus Have Great Variety Of Musical Instruments

The Hindus of India are believed to play more different kinds of musical instruments than are found in all other countries together, says Collier's. Because almost all of their earliest instruments have remained in use, these people now have several thousand, including some 300 varieties of orchestral drums.

In fact, their most popular is still the vina (a guitarlike instrument with seven strings) which was invented more than 1,200 years ago.

Most Symbols

The largest group of symbols in existence is that used by chemists throughout the world to designate the formulas of the some 250,000 pure substances now known.

JULY 31 IS DATE SET FOR COLLECTING WASTE PAPER IN OCEAN BEACH

San Diego householders are redoubling their efforts to meet a national paper-shortage emergency by increasing their donations of old newspapers, magazines, and other waste paper this month, L. M. Nichols, co-chairman of the Civilian Defense Council's War Salvage committee, announced.

The 10-week curb-to-curb collection schedule opened last Monday, June 19, when the committee's trucks "invaded" postal zone 4, with "excellent results," according to Nichols. The committee's phone number is M-9070. Next collection scheduled for Ocean Beach is July 31 and for Point Loma July 24.

THE RED CROSS IN OCEAN BEACH

By ONA E. PITCOCK

This week I would like to appeal to the women of the Beach who are not working to help the war effort.

Our men are being brought home from both the Italian front and the South Pacific. They get the wounded from Italy to London in six hours and all who can be sent to the States are sent home aboard hospital planes which takes but one day. Then they are sent to the hospitals nearest their home if possible. We are back in our quota of surgical dressings just when we need them most and we need women who sew to help make hospital shirts and operative gowns.

The slipper quota has to be three times as many. Where we previously made 1000 now it has to be 3000. These also are cut and ready to sew. Don't say you haven't the time. You should find the time, you know. These are our men folks and you are your brother's keeper. When they come home may you be able to hold up your head and tell them you did your part. We must not let them down when they need us most and it is so very little we can do compared to what they are doing.

We have imperative need for helpers to make pneumonia jackets. All who have machines please call and take these articles home to sew. Let's see that the wounded may have clean dressings and bed jackets.

Our sale will be July 8 at Presidio park. Corps wagons will meet all busses at Ramona's Marriage Place in Old Town and at Trias st. and Port Stockton drive in Mission Hills. Cars and busses leave the Plaza every six minutes. Don't fail to attend. You will have a pleasant time.

Don't forget that every Tuesday is cookie day and our men will enjoy them so much upon their arrival home.

The Auxiliary women of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are now cutting slippers, and as our demand is so great it certainly is a wonderful help. It takes 50 pairs at a time for Mission Beach alone but each man must have a pair of slippers upon his arrival at the hospital.

Blood plasma is greatly needed so please call T-7704 and make your appointment.

Don't think because grease and oils are not rationed that you do not have to save your used fats because you do. Save every drop.

Don't ever forget that you are the Red Cross. Do your part.

The Girl and Boy Scouts will work all summer in collecting funny magazines and articles wanted by Red Cross. Troop 128, Den 4, Cub Scouts, brought in 111 funny books yesterday. They are fine boys.

The Red Cross phoned that the birthday box sent from Ocean Beach went to a young boy who had not received a card, letter or package for his birthday. He said to tell the women here that this box was like a gift from heaven to a very lonesome service man. Report has come in that 50,000 cookies were sent in one day.

SUNDAY SCHOOL HEADS TO MEET JUNE 30 FOR RELIGIOUS EDUCATION

The bi-monthly meeting of Sunday School superintendents and department heads will be held at the Fifth ave. Methodist church, Fifth and Olive streets, Friday, June 30, at 7:30, announces Delia H. Reinhold, secretary. Topics to be presented are:

"Visual Aids for Sunday School," led by Rev. R. Fred Moseley.

"Missionary Education," led by Miss Helen Moore.

The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the San Diego County Council of Religious Education, of which Dr. Leland D. Jones is the president.

San Diego's Zoo Has Own D-Day, An Infant Giraffe

The San Diego zoo has its own "D-Day," and her other name is giraffe, reports the director, Mrs. Belle Benchley, Ocean Beach.

The cute, pint-sized female Nubian giraffe was born to "Patches" and "Lofty" on Tuesday, June 6, just as the boys were calling "extra" on the streets, and the gas company's whistle was sounding the historic news that the Allies at last were attacking the European fortress.

"D-Day," of course, was the name chosen for the baby giraffe, which, unlike any of its family, has black "knee guards" on its slender, and slightly unsteady legs. Instead of little horns, "D-Day" has two tiny tassels, according to officials of the San Diego Zoological society.

Like her brother, Raffy, born in March, 1942, "D-Day" is a "splitting image" of her mother and father, and complete in every detail, and "as frisky as a young colt," according to her keeper.

Meanwhile, in an adjoining cage on C-mesa at the zoo the nearly grown "Raffy" peers wondrously over at the tiny giraffe as she frisks about the enclosure.

The mother and father were brought across country in a truck after a two months' boat trip from Mombasa, Africa. The pair made "newspaper history" in every town through which they passed in their specially-built truck. The zoo's press book shows scores of pictures of the two giraffes enroute to California from New York.

WHAT'S BUZZIN'!

By CHERIE.

"He that giveth—let him do it with liberality."
And in this case—we're only loaning our money. So let's hit the Jackpot and bet 't all back on the 5th War Bond Drive!"

Did you know that...
The War Bond Eagle done in crayon hanging in the reception hall of the Masonic Lodge was done by our own Celeste Hollycross? Celeste has been a resident of our fair city for a number of years, and most of us know her and have seen some of her work. In appearance, Celeste is slim, svelte and well dressed with a dash of color that is utterly charming. In her home she has achieved the same good grooming, and a feeling of friendliness prevails. The little Chinese figurines, "Ma-ling" and "Chong," are among some of Celeste's hand-made originals on exhibition here at the Beach. They're cast out of artificial stone and are hand painted. Mrs. Hollycross has many and varied talents, but feels that her work on the War Bond Eagle has by far surpassed them all. We're proud to be able to claim Celeste as one of our own!

Our good friends...
Dick Bradford (former manager of Elm's Bootery) writes he's feeling fine and enjoying a vacation with his mother in Seattle, Wash... Ann and Benny Elvove have returned from their visit to Chicago. It's Ann and Benny's home town and they were welcomed in a royal manner... Dr. Marvin Eby moved into his home on the corner of Newport and Ebers last week... "Chuck" Baer underwent a major operation Friday at Scripps Memorial Hospital in La Jolla. We're happy to hear his condition is good... Stella Crawford says getting one's throat cut isn't so bad as long as it's done by a surgeon!... The house of the pretty pink poppies on Newport ave. belongs to J. A. Walton, and it (the house, I mean) is sporting a new bay window!

A column or two ago, I commented on the best-seller, "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn." Understand it is now being cast by 20th Century Fox and Joan Blondell seems destined to be "Aunt Sissy" and Cary Grant may play "Johnny Nolan." It's undecided as to Francis Nolan, but my suggestion would be Jennifer Jones. What's yours?

Ice packs and aspirin to East-West bound motorists on Newport ave—top of the hill to Sunset Cliffs, the one and only boulevard stop. Don't know what the answer is, exactly, but it's a question that should be brought before the proper authorities.

In passing...
The "Bobby Socks" and "Tee Shirts" are out of school for the summer months. Let's be "extra" careful in our driving, and give the "kids" a break.

Phone them in to Cherie—B-7232 or B-5605.

Civilian Defense - -

DISTRICT No. 7
Bayview 6101

Some people have the mistaken idea that Civilian Defense is to be discontinued. That is not so at this time. However, there is a possibility of the budget appropriations being reduced, but the Civilian Defense organization will be continued with volunteer workers and in time be back to the old program of disaster relief with lessened accent on war perils.

Right now Civilian Defense is co-operating with all the War agencies—Child Care centers, U.S.O., Blood "Bank," transportation in "Share-the-Ride," and other community work. In the near future we will be asked to assist in another clothing drive. All these things are War services and Civilian Defense plays a large part in it.

We are pleased to announce that Mrs. Elizabeth H. Decker has been appointed Block leader in Sector F.

We are again calling to your attention the need of saving fats—when you save fat at home you help save a life on some fighting front. Fat is ammunition. Ammunition is safety and a road to victory. Saving fat is a little thing to remember... but a big thing to do.

—Bertha K. Leadbeater.

Overseas Holiday Mail Announced 30-Day Period For

Putting reverse "english" on the "June in January" theme, the U. S. Navy mail service already is making plans to get Christmas mail on time to Navy, Marine and Coast Guard personnel overseas, the San Diego fleet post office revealed today.

A 30-day period between September 15 and October 15 has been designated as Christmas mail month for Bluejackets, Marines and Coast Guardsmen outside the United States. The public will be urged to dispatch gift packages during that time. Christmas mail is expected to be heavier than last year, when it reached record figures.

Gift packages must be within present limitations—five pounds in weight, 15 inches in length and 36 inches in length and girth combined. No perishable articles will be accepted, and sending of fragile merchandise will be discouraged.

Pointing out that several thousand Navy Christmas packages were delayed last year because of being improperly addressed, Navy mail officials again will emphasize the necessity of correct addresses this year. Improper addresses often result in delays up to 90 days because of difficulties involved, the fleet post office said.

NEEDY AGED PAID $47.30 AVERAGE IN COUNTY IN APRIL

The $47.30 per month average aid paid each needy aged person in San Diego county during April is 75.2 per cent more than the $26.99 per month average aid paid to needy aged persons throughout the United States in February, California Taxpayers' association reported today.

Average old age aid given per person throughout California for April was $47.10, the association stated. Total old age aid paid out in San Diego county was $336,128 for April.

Needy aged people in California received $7,432,961 for the one month of April. Projected, this means that during one year about $90,000,000 will be paid out in direct relief payments to needy aged people in California alone.

Present maximum aid to the needy aged in California is $50 per month to needy persons aged 65 or more who have at least five years residence, with liberal property limitations. Single grown children of a needy parent can earn up to $155 a month without one cent of legal responsibility for the care of such parent. Prior to June, 1943, maximum relief was $40 per month.

During the present war-time boom conditions, close to $700,000,000 will be paid out in direct relief to the needy aged throughout the nation for one year, with the bill to the people for February at $57,300,000.

Kraft Co-Author Of Resolution On Highway To East

Assemblyman Fred H. Kraft of Ocean Beach was one of the co-authors of a resolution passed at the recent extra session of the state legislature at Sacramento, in which the state legislative body is calling on congress to include within any inter-regional highway system it authorizes "a route directly connecting the San Diego Imperial Valley region with the easterly portion of the United States." Assemblyman Charles W. Stream of Chula Vista was the author of the resolution.

Although no specific provision was made for San Diego State College's postwar building program, the legislature's designation of additional money for post-war planning and building is expected to provide sufficient money for all, or a good portion, of the program. The State Department of Education has recommended projects totaling more than $2,000,000 for the college.

One cause for complaint which San Diego residents might have concerning the legislature's special session actions pertains to the teacher's retirement system, which was primary purpose of the session.

The bill in its final form made no gesture toward reimbursing San Diego, San Francisco and Los Angeles districts, which maintain their own teacher's retirement systems, for money collected in state taxes in the three districts for support of the state annuity system in other districts of the state.

About two-thirds of the money constituting the state's share in the state annuity system is collected within boundaries of the three districts, according to Gilbert Deere, San Diego high school department head who represented the city board of education at legislative hearings on the bill.

Canneries Plan To Set Out Albacore Floating Depots

San Diego fish canneries here are getting ready with the fishermen for the ocean's choicest seafood, once named the "chicken of the sea," and now more commonly called the albacore. The industry is planning to set out floating depots at Pt. Loma so fishermen at the height of the run of albacore, expected to start by the first of the coming month, will not need to waste hours coming in to port to unload the fish and to take on supplies. These depots will include bait facilities.

Hundreds of would-be fishermen lured by stories of the fabulous profits that have been obtained from the albacore in the past two seasons are getting everything from a skiff to an ocean-going tug ready for the run.

Appearance of the albacore off San Diego the last two years, after an absence of 17 years, brought into action the so-called jig-boats, small motorboats usually manned by two men. Jig-boats doubled and trebled in price and men unable to get them set forth in anything that would float and provide a fishing platform.

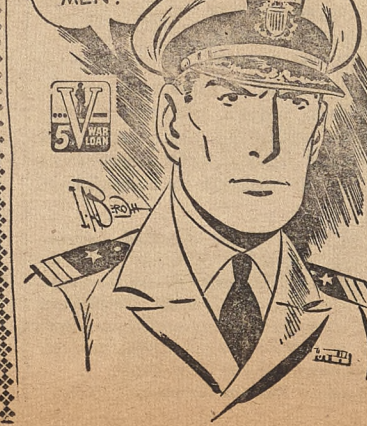

Other Fish Ignored
The fresh fish market suffered, for no fishermen would go after anything else with $325 a ton, cash-on-the-barrelhead albacore in sight. The fresh fish that will find its way to market during the albacore run this year will consist of those denizens of the deep that were caught by mistake and which fishermen were too busy to toss back.

These small boats, and the bigger ones that went out for the local run, brought in enough albacore to make 500,000 cases of the city's 2,500,000-case tuna pack last year. The rest came from the southern fishing grounds, and consisted of yellowfin, bluefin and skipjack, good tasty tuna all, but not in the same class with the "chicken of the sea." Yellowfin are reported to bring $200 a ton, skipjack $180, and bluefin $190. If the fishermen accidentally find a run of yellowtail they'll get $145 a ton for that, and $155 a ton for bonita, say those "in the know."

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of the Flying Fortress, "The Swoose," tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines, killing eight of his men and demolishing Old 99, with many other Forts, before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the 19th Bombardment Group flies to Java, where they help defend the island until it falls. U. S. fliers evacuate to Australia to carry on the war from there. The 19th Bombardment Group is back in business again, and Kurtz once more flies "The Swoose." Buzz Wagner, hero of the Philippines, who has a desk job in Australia, steps into a P-39 and shows his boys how to nip the Nips.

CHAPTER XXII

"Because the real truth is," he said, "our present Army fighters don't climb fast enough, or high enough—and they don't have the range. Every Jap knows this, if the people back home don't. Maybe it would hurt their morale to find it out, but I'm only thinking of the morale of my pilots." That's why he wanted to come home. Poor guy."

"Meanwhile Florida played on in the sunshine," said Margo, "and I was trying to write letters to some of the other girls we knew whose husbands would never come back. Some of the letters I wanted to write I couldn't. For a while I had been on exhibition because my husband was supposed to be dead in Java, and they'd look at me and groan with patriotic sympathy, and then get to work planning the next golf tournament. I'd look at those strong, healthy young golf professionals, coaching flabby men on the putting greens, and wonder why they weren't in uniform. Only that was the wrong attitude; they'd tell you we need recreation now, more than ever, to keep our morale up during the war. I suppose it was true, but I kept wishing the weary boys in uniform I knew could be getting more of it, instead of these stagnant, contented men."

"There were some more names to be added to that list of letters," said Frank, "but with us the feeling had changed. It was wonderful to be able at last to smash them back, as the fighters had done at Darwin. And from its base in North Australia, the old 19th Bombardment Group—which included the 7th now—was flying out over New Guinea and New Britain islands, landing heavy punches on them at Lae and Salamaua, and at Rabaul."

"Now the Jap lines of communication were as far extended as ours had been; now we had something like the equipment they had put against us. We knew, of course, they were busy digesting Java and the Philippines. But we felt now they could never knock us back on our heels again, because we were getting solidly dug in so we could soak up their punches and put out a few of our own. It was a nice feeling."

"Also the Japs were getting a healthy respect for the E-model Forts."

"Not long after the Olympics, I heard Kobi Ishi had entered the Jap Air Force. After that I thought of them all as Kobi Ishi, a pretty good diver with some fair tricks and a toothy smile, but nothing you can't handle if you train for it. Maybe they're all fanatics, craving to die for the Emperor, but I remember a story the 19th told me in Australia."

"Six of our Forts were coming in over Rabaul to give the Japs a pasting when one lone Zero showed up. The six Forts were all brand-new E models, and the Japs had learned about them. The Forts continued in formation, but keeping their guns trained on the Zero. Now most fighter pilots, whether they're American, Jap, or German, are nervous and quick like fox terriers. There's no gap between thinking and acting, so you can almost watch a fighter plane and read its pilot's mind. That's how it was with this little Jap. He starts in, thinking here's a chance to pick off a Fort, and then suddenly he sees all those guns and thinks how sweet it is to back home, and how nice it would be to get back to her, so about half a mile away he pulls out in a turn, out of range, and continues parallel with the six Forts, thinking it over. Well, the six Forts finally wins out over the Emperor, because he doesn't go in, but he thumbs his nose at them in his way: flying alongside, with all of our gun watching, he starts doing Immelmann turns. It's a half-loop, which brings you out upside down only flying backward, quickly followed by a half-roll, which turns you right side up again. And it's one of the hardest tricks in the book if done properly—beautiful flying, the boys said, and he kept doing it over and over, just out of range, as much as to say, 'Boys, I'm not coming in, but don't think I can't fly.' Kept it up for fifteen minutes in his latest-model super-charged Zero, and just as he flipped off into a cloud, our gang waved their applause for the flying circus, and he gave them the high sign back. To me he was Kobi Ishi. I'd like to meet him after the war."

"In early April Port Moresby on New Guinea was our problem child. Our air base there was a single jungle-hewn landing strip with no adequate antiaircraft guns. We were building dispersal fields, but they weren't done yet, so that the aircraft had to be lined up along the side of that gravel runway and of course were slow in getting off, which made it a setup for the Japs. Also, our equipment was flown by green youngsters from the States. The big problem was supply. Moresby is as far from Melbourne as Los Angeles is from Pittsburgh. Then at every state line the Australian railroad changes gauges, so all the freight cars had to be unloaded. We had about a dozen B-24's to bring supplies in over the water from the end of the railroad at Townsville, but only about four of these were operational; the rest were under repair.

"And the Japs were still a nuisance at Moresby—dropping down from the overcast to strafe our field at 40 feet altitude. We spent a lot of our time there, and had some close calls getting out to save the Swoose."

"I'll never forget our closest one," said Master Sergeant 'Red' Varner,

The cannibal head hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk the tame village natives.

the Swoose's crew chief. "We got just a minute and a half's notice that the Japs were coming. Now the General could have stepped down into a foxhole and been perfectly safe there, watching the Japs pound the field. But not our General—he wanted to save that plane, and we had to run like hell to jump in, the General leading everybody, slam the doors, and lam out of there. We had to take off down wind, which was bad, missing a little hill by a lot less than 100 feet. We wouldn't have missed it if it hadn't been for those smart trees they have on New Guinea growing on top of that hill—the most intelligent ones I've ever seen. Because they saw us coming and ducked. I happened to be looking out and saw them. Then I looked back, and bombs were already breaking on the field right in the dust of our take-off."

"The Colonel here, who of course was doing the piloting, pulled a smart one. The Japs were right on top of us, so he hugged the ground—figuring then the Zeros couldn't dive on us without mashing their own propellers into the bush. We went hell for breakfast, wiggling in and out of gullies hardly 40 feet off the ground, and then out over the sea, where we could see a cloud cover to hide in. We had all kinds of rank aboard that day—Australian Air Force generals and other visiting firemen—and some of them weren't used to scuttling through gullies in a four-motor plane, and by the time we got into that cloud they were sprouting some gray hairs."

"By May, though," said Frank, "we began to get the situation in hand at Moresby. We got some dispersal fields back in the hills for our planes and an operational alarm net so now we can intercept, and also the Zeros run into an intense cross-fire from the ground which sends them trailing off across the jungle on fire. So presently strafing is out, and we have only regular raids by high-altitude Jap bombers pounding the field. Our fighters are getting better every day, and pretty soon they're chasing them out over the coast, jettisoning their bombs, which whistle down harmlessly to tear up empty jungles."

"For a while we had a labor problem. The tame village natives we'd hired to work on the field didn't like the bombs, and when the alarm sounded, instead of jumping into the foxholes they'd beat it into the jungle, and maybe not come back for a couple of days. However, this soon stopped, because the cannibal head-hunters who lived in the jungle used to stalk them and chase them back, and as between the bombs and the head-hunters, the natives chose the bombs, so we got plenty of work done.

"By now we weren't worried about Port Moresby. We had that in fair shape, and our bombers were going over almost every day to pound the Japs. But we were uneasy about the other shore of New Guinea. The Japs had already dug in at Lae and Salamaua—suppose they came on down the line and put in an airfield at Buna, right opposite Moresby? They could cause us plenty of trouble, intercepting our bombers on the way out and back."

"General Brett was particularly anxious, and wanted to move in and take Buna in May. There was nothing there then but a native village and an old Catholic mission. But Melbourne said no, because it would mean landing troops to defend our airdrome there."

"But the Air Force knew if the Japs ever got Buna it would take a first-class expedition to get them out. Finally General Ralph Royce, who was General Brett's operations chief, flew out over northern New Guinea on a personal inspection of the whole coast, and sent to Melbourne a detailed report, endorsing a field at Buna as vital to our future air operations."

"Presently his reply came. In reference to his report on the establishment of a landing field at Buna, Melbourne headquarters commended him for his initiative in making the reconnaissance, but found that owing to lack of facilities, it wasn't possible at this time."

"But this friendly little ground-air argument over Buna was soon settled. The third week in July our reconnaissance spotted a Jap Naval task force moving toward the north coast of New Guinea, and now just off Rabaul. We weren't sure where they were headed—maybe around the island, to capture Moresby itself."

"We were taking no chances, so on July 24 General Brett hit them with everything he had, little as it was—medium and light bombardment, Forts and obsolescent dive bombers."

"But for twenty-four hours the fog closed in, hiding them. When it lifted they were sixty miles off Buna. Now we knew the Jap High Command was thinking in the same strategic terms as we were in the Air Force."

"Even though the weather gave us this very short time to pound them, we made them pay for their Buna landing. But still they could sneak a transport through during the night to put troops ashore. Had we had only a little infantry and artillery at Buna, they could have held them off, giving the Air Force a chance to pound their landing barges at dawn. But we didn't have, and when morning came their transport was steaming away empty."

"In only two days the enterprising little devils had chopped a landing strip out of the jungle. A few days later their fighters were rising off it to attack our bombers as they took off or returned to Moresby after pounding the Jap base at Rabaul. "It took almost six months of hard fighting by both Australian and American infantry, down over the Owen Stanley range—finally led by General MacArthur himself—to clear the Japanese out. What we have now is real co-operation. The ground forces know the vital importance of airfields, and I hope we in the Air Force have come to appreciate the tremendous importance of the unity of air, land, and sea."

"A man doesn't know what distance means until he flies that end of the world," said Red, the crew chief. "Remember the time we had to make a forced landing right in the middle of the place?"

"I'll never forget," said Charlie, the bombardier. "It was about the time of that Buna business."

"We had left Darwin," said Red, "and were flying across the Australian desert headed for Cloncurry. We had umpty-ump rank aboard, about sixteen in all—General Royce, General Perrin, General Marquat, and some Australians—Air Marshals they probably were—and also Lyndon Johnson, a big lanky guy from Texas, a real Congressman, only now he was not inspecting this area as a Navy Lieutenant Commander."

"Well, we're flying along over this wilderness which looks like the rumpled parts of New Mexico or Arizona, heading, we think, for this Cloncurry, only our arrival time goes by, and no Cloncurry."

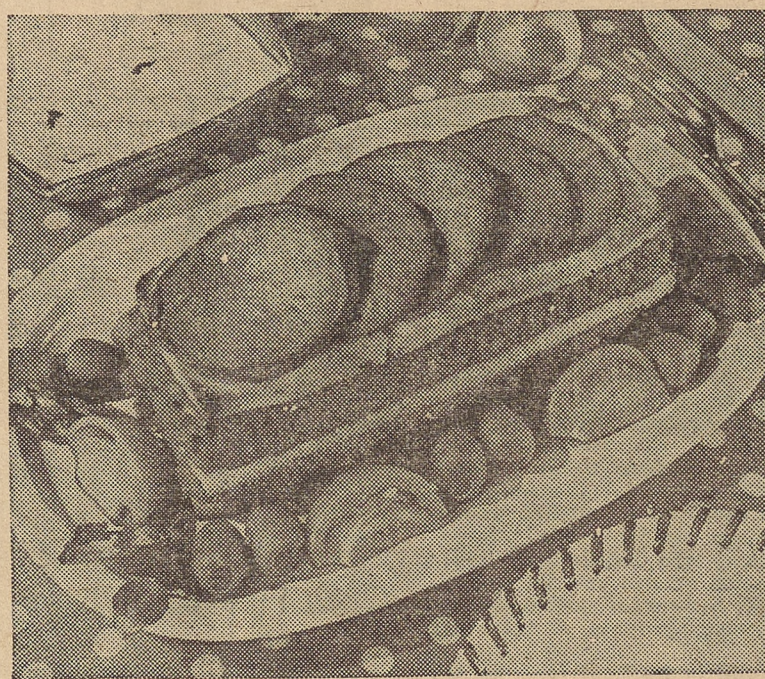

"Harry, the navigator, begins to check things, and discovers that his octant has gone out on him—it's like a sextant on a ship, only you use an air bubble instead of the horizon. It wasn't Harry's fault—the prism was turning all right, but now he could see the recorder wasn't. He came up out of the navigator's compartment into the cockpit shaking his head, and told Frank here what had happened—that he had no idea where the Swoose was. 'You can have her now, Major,' he says. 'She's all yours!'"

"Well, first the Major got our radioman to working, trying to wake up some Australian station which would give us a bearing. But I guess they were all asleep. Our gas was getting lower and lower. And the sun was sinking, too. And that country below us was all rumpled up like someone had slept in it

Cold Meat Warms Up for Main Dish

(See Recipes Below)

Meat Varieties

One of the most difficult tasks that faces the housewife is that of getting variety into the meat dish. Meat, in itself, is delicious, but if served in the same way, with the same vegetables or without condiments, occasionally, it smacks of sameness.

There are many who will always bake ham without varying the glaze to add interesting flavor to the meat. There are others who don't realize that a bit of natural, home-grown herbs will pep up the good, old-fashioned pot roast. Some always serve luncheon meats cold on a slab of bread or with potato salad, and so on. For once, let's try things new and interesting:

Liverwurst Loaf. (Serves 6)
 ½ pound bologna
 2 tablespoons chili sauce
 4 tablespoons mayonnaise
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 ¾ pound liver sausage
 3 tablespoons finely chopped pickle
 4 tablespoons chopped celery
 2 teaspoons onion juice
 1 loaf unsliced white bread
 3 tablespoons creamed butter

Put bologna through food chopper; add chili sauce, 2 tablespoons of mayonnaise and lemon juice. Mix to a smooth paste. Mash liver sausage, add chopped pickle, celery, onion, Worcestershire sauce, remaining mayonnaise and mix to a smooth paste. Cut crust from bread, slice three inch lengthwise slices. Place one slice on baking sheet and spread with bologna paste. Top with remaining slice of bread. Spread entire loaf with creamed butter. Bake in a moderate (350 degree) oven 30 minutes. Place on platter and garnish with stuffed olives and tomato wedges. Serve with:

Creamy Mustard Sauce.
 ¼ cup sugar
 ¼ teaspoon salt
 2 egg yolks
 1 cup scalded milk
 ¼ cup prepared mustard
 2 tablespoons vinegar
 1 small sprig chopped thyme
 ½ teaspoon allspice
 ½ teaspoon celery salt
 ¼ teaspoon paprika
 Dash of tabasco
 6 slices ripe olives

Mix sugar, salt and egg yolks together, beating well. Add to scalded milk in top of double boiler. Mix together mustard, vinegar, thyme, allspice, celery salt, paprika and tabasco. Add slowly to milk and egg mixture. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until mixture thickens. Just before serving garnish top of sauce with olives.

Extra Attractions: Potato chips make nice snacks when there's a rosette of cream cheese on each one of them. Simply soften cheese and force through a pastry tube.

Try a green salad with tender green scallions from the garden, and toss together with a sour cream dressing. It's delicious! Dredge bacon pieces in corn meal; fry until crisp. Then add onion and flour for thickening and milk for the gravy. Umm... Roll cooked pitted prunes in orange-sugar or lemon-sugar to use as roll filling. Make bacon biscuits (adding ½ cup chopped bacon to standard biscuit recipe). Top baked biscuits with creamed asparagus or carrots for an inviting luncheon dish.

Top chocolate ice cream with chopped toasted almonds for a good tasting dessert. Chopped green peppers and pitted ripe olives introduce flavor and texture contrast to fish salad.

Kidneys and liver are both delectable if prepared with the proper seasonings:

*Roast Kidney Loaf.
 (Serves 6)
 1 pound beef, veal, pork or lamb kidney
 1 cup milk
 8 slices bread
 ¼ cup bacon drippings or butter
 2 eggs
 1 green pepper minced
 1½ teaspoons salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 3 tablespoons grated onion
 ½ teaspoon powdered sage

Wash kidney in cold water. Drain well and grind, including the internal fat. Pour milk over bread and soak. Combine all ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pack firmly in a loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1½ hours.

Liver Deluxe. (Serves 6)
 6 tablespoons bacon drippings
 1 large onion, thinly sliced
 6 cups shredded cabbage
 1 teaspoon salt
 ¼ teaspoon pepper
 1 pound cubed liver
 ½ cup water
 1 tablespoon soy sauce

Brown onion in 4 tablespoons drippings. Add cabbage and seasonings. Cover and cook over low heat for 15 minutes. Remove from pan. Roll liver in seasoned flour and brown in remaining drippings. Add water and simmer 5 minutes. Add soy sauce and cabbage.

Bacon makes a tasty, light supper dish with garden-fresh green beans:

Bacon and Beans. (Serves 4)
 ½ pound bacon
 1 pound fresh green beans
 2 tablespoons bacon drippings
 1 teaspoon salt
 ½ cup chopped green onions
 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento

Wash green beans and cut lengthwise. Cook in a small amount of water. Add bacon drippings and salt. Ten minutes before green beans are cooked, add green onions and pimiento. Serve with strips of crisp bacon.

The outdoor flavor of the barbecue is captured with this barbecue ham. The sauce is seasoned just right, tangy but not too hot:

Barbecued Ham. (Serves 6)
 1 slice ham (2 pounds, 1 inch thick)
 ½ large onion
 ½ clove garlic
 ¼ cup catsup
 ¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
 1 small can tomato soup
 ¼ cup vinegar
 ¼ tablespoon butter
 ½ tablespoon sugar
 ½ teaspoon pepper

Simmer ham ½ hour before baking. Chop onions and garlic very fine. Add remaining ingredients and pour over ham; bake uncovered for 30 to 40 minutes in a moderate oven.

At That She Put Her First Aid Training to Good Use

A woman who had driven the other members of a first-aid class nearly frantic by her continual criticism of the whole idea turned up one day a complete convert. "Why," she said, "yesterday I was sitting at home when I heard a screeching of brakes and then a terrific crash. Two cars had overturned right in front of our gate and four people were lying in the road. One woman had a deep cut in her arm, two men had broken legs, and another severe lacerations of the face. But, thank Heaven, I remembered exactly what you had taught me. I bent over and put my head between my knees—and didn't faint!"

Pistol-Packin' Fish Shoots Water at Its Prey Ashore

The archer fish of Southeastern Asia is prepared for trouble for it carries a gun. Its weapon consists of a tube-like mouth from which it can propel a tiny jet of water accurately for some feet. When the archer sees an insect resting on a plant or other object above, it sneaks up, then shoots, wetting its prey and causing it to fall into the water where the archer gobbles it up.

The amount of water which the fish ejects is only a couple of drops but the "bullet" has speed and force.

When Your Back Hurts—And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

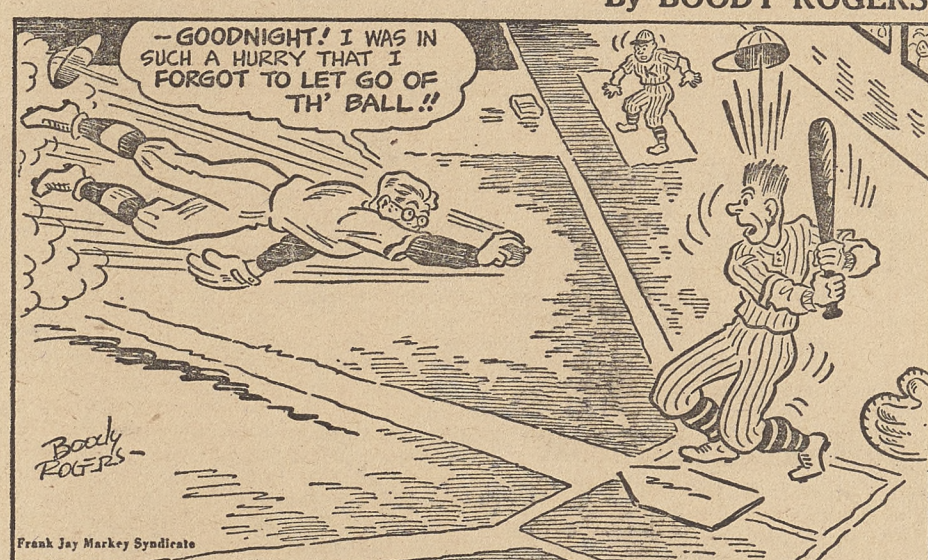

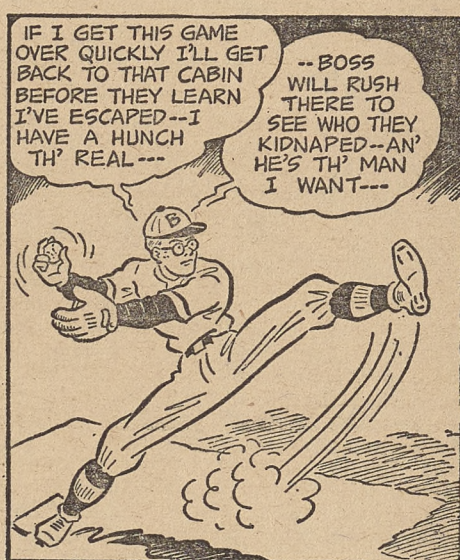

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

A HANDSOME pair of cushions to brighten up your living room may be made from things on hand or from remnants of silk. Frequently the largest pieces of the skirt of an old silk dress may be used for a pair of matching cushions. The backing may be made of sateen. A soft fold of a contrasting silk around the edge makes a smart finish. The sketch shows how such a fold is cut and applied.

Eighteen inches square is a good size for the cushions and, if you have an assortment of cushions of different sizes, it is easy to transfer the filling into ticks of the size you want. Stitch and turn, leaving a four-inch opening in one side. Rip a smaller opening in the old ticking, sew the large opening over it, smaller one and then work the filling through. Rip apart and sew the new ticking with close stitches.
